سُلطة تنظيم الأصول الافتراضية
VIRTUAL ASSETS REGULATORY AUTHORITY

Regulatory Radar

A snapshot of emerging trends shaping virtual asset markets worldwide

Moving Beyond Standalone Asset Classes

Virtual assets are increasingly being considered within the context of broader financial markets and investment products.

Recent developments suggest growing focus on how digital assets can interact with existing market structures while maintaining appropriate safeguards.

Expanding Access Through Traditional Investment Channels

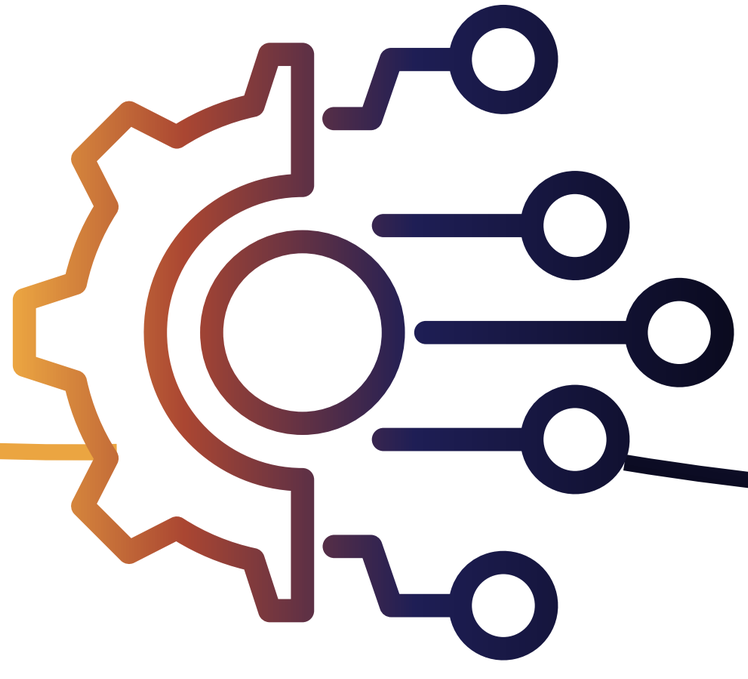

Recent proposals in the UK would allow certain authorised retail funds to gain limited exposure to virtual asset exchange-traded notes.

The development reflects continued discussion around how virtual asset exposure can be incorporated into regulated investment products while maintaining diversification and investor protection requirements.

Bridging Traditional and Digital Markets

Developments in the US are exploring how market structures can adapt to emerging technologies.

Recent proposals could support greater interaction between traditional securities markets and blockchain-based trading infrastructure, while regulated perpetual futures markets continue to evolve.

Understanding Activity Beneath the Surface

New BIS research suggests stablecoins are increasingly being used as part of broader financial activity, including trading, lending, settlement and liquidity provision.

The findings highlight the growing complexity and integration of virtual assets within financial ecosystems.

The developments emerging across global markets suggest increasing focus on how virtual assets can be incorporated into existing financial systems and market structures. As adoption progresses, attention is turning not only to access and innovation, but also to how these activities can operate within established frameworks for investor protection, market integrity and risk management.

Ruben Bombardi,
General Counsel and Head of Regulatory Enablement, VARA

Sources

Financial Conduct Authority (FCA)
Quarterly Consultation

U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC)
Proposed Rescission of Regulation NMS Rules

Commodity Futures Trading Commission (CFTC)
No-Action Letter for Digital Commodity Perpetual Futures

Bank for International Settlements (BIS)
Anatomy of Stablecoin Transactions